I realized that cultivating these skills would enable me to find effective solutions and adapt to the ever-evolving demands of my chosen career. Engaging in volunteer work and development research were also highlighted as valuable experiences that can help me gain practical skills and make a positive impact in the world.

IV. Recommendation

The flow of the OJT orientation program was good and the topics are very informative too, that I am sure that all participants learned a lot and acquired so much learning to all the topics of the event. However, I have only a few recommendations, like all of participants especially for the OJT trainees to listen carefully to the discussion because all the topics in the event are so important to learn. In addition, some participants in the events should not have any extra activity, so as not to destruct other participants of the event.
